The purpose of Probation and Community Intervention is to increase public safety by reducing juvenile delinquency through effective intervention and case management services to youth on diversion, probation, and post commitment supervision. Probation and Community Intervention promotes offender accountability using restorative sanctions and treatment services that strengthen families and help support youth in becoming responsible citizens.

Diversion services are non-judicial alternatives used to keep less serious offenders from being handled through the traditional juvenile justice system. These services are intended to intervene at an early stage of delinquency, decrease subsequent offenses during and after participation in the programs, and provide for an array of services to juvenile offenders. These services can range from programs such as teen courts, mediation services, and Juvenile Alternative Sanctions Program, to more intensive services like Intensive Delinquency Diversion Services.

Intensive Delinquency Diversion Services (IDDS) programs offer services to a specific population of juvenile offenders who are at high risk of becoming chronic offenders, but who qualify for diversion based on certain criminogenic needs. Risk to reoffend is based on the Positive Achievement Change Tool (PACT) assessment instrument. These factors include school behavior and performance problems; family problems; substance abuse issues; and pre-delinquent behaviors, such as running away. IDDS services are provided through a competitively procured private service provider in each of Florida's 20 judicial circuits.

Intensive case management services are provided six days per week and include services outside the normal 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. workday to ensure that youth and families have adequate access. Typical interventions services include:

- Treatment plan supervision
- Diagnostic evaluation services
- Social and life skill enhancement
- Substance abuse counseling
- Pre-vocational services
- Restitution
- Behavior management
- Mental health services
- Counseling services
- Community services
- Academic assistance
- Transportation

An integral part of program service delivery is the establishment of appropriate linkages with local resources that can provide services at a reduced cost. The length of participation is designed to be between five and seven months. Release from the program is based on the youth's performance in the program and an assessment of the potential for re-offending.

Probation Supervision is ordered by the court in cases involving a youth who has been determined to have committed a delinquent act. While on probation the youth's activities are restricted in lieu of commitment to the custody of the Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ). Juvenile Probation Officers (JPO) are employees of the Department who serve as the primary case manager for the purpose of managing, coordinating, and monitoring the services provided and sanctions required for each youth.

The Positive Achievement Change Tool is used by the JPO to assess a youth's needs and risk to public safety.

In addition to case management services, the JPO is responsible for the intake of youth upon arrest. Intake services begin when the youth is delivered to the Department for a criminal history records search, screening for detention placement, a suicide risk assessment, a risk and needs assessment, and a mental health and substance abuse screening. After this initial contact with the youth, the JPO must interview the youth, his or her parents, the arresting officer, the victim(s), and other parties in order to make a recommendation to the state attorney regarding whether to file a petition for court processing. Youth placed in residential commitment programs are assigned a JPO who shall assist the parent(s)/guardian(s) and program staff as necessary to ensure communication is conducive to the youth's successful completion of the program.

Juvenile Probation Officers have two main functions: intake services and supervision of youth.

Planning for the youth's transition back into the community begins at the commitment conference when appropriate post commitment services are identified. Successful transition involves the ongoing efforts of the youth, parent(s)/guardian(s), treatment team, and JPO. Prior to the youth's release from residential care the program shall conduct an exit conference to finalize plans for the youth's release. It is at this time that the JPO shall make post-residential service referrals, if required.

For probation youth, a Youth Empowered Success (YES) Plan is developed that serves as the primary planning tool for the administration and organization of case management services. The YES Plan describes the action steps and target dates for completion of all court-ordered sanctions and goals in order to earn a recommendation for termination from supervision. While the youth is under supervision of the Department on probation, conditional release or post commitment probation, the JPO shall make contact (i.e. face to face, telephone, review of written reports, etc) with the youth, family, law enforcement, and service providers to ensure compliance with the court order and YES Plan sanctions and goals. Violations of probation include both new law violations and non-law or technical violations, such as chronic truancy or refusal to attend a day treatment program. The JPO may file an affidavit of violation of probation with the state attorney who will decide whether to petition the court for a hearing. The court approves final termination from probation.

The PACT is used by the JPO to assess a youth's needs and risk to public safety. The most appropriate level of probation supervision is determined based on risk factors statistically validated to predict risk to re-offend, including criminal history and the current offense. A reassessment instrument is completed every 90 days or sooner if a change in supervision is needed because of a new law violation or if the youth's degree of compliance changes. The frequency of intervention with the youth is based on the youth's level of risk to re-offend based upon the PACT, the youth's compliance with court-ordered sanctions, and participation in treatment.

Probation Day Treatment programs are facility based and target youth on probation in need of a higher level of supervision and services. Youth participate in day treatment supervision, programming, and education. Day treatment programs provide counseling, recreation, vocational training and on-site educational programs during the day as well as evenings and often weekends. JPOs or counselors monitor progress of the youth at home, school, and work and compliance with court sanctions. In addition, individual, family and small group counseling may be provided. All day treatment programs are operated by providers under contract with DJJ. AMIkids is the major provider of day treatment services across the state. Four other providers also provide day treatment services in Florida for DJJ.

Post Commitment Services are provided to youth released from residential commitment programs. These programs assist with transitioning youth back into their homes and communities. Types of services include contracted day treatment services, contracted community supervision services, state-operated community supervision services, and residential vocational training. Youth can either be placed on a conditional release or post-commitment probation status.

Day treatment programs for youth on conditional release are similar to those serving youth at the front end of the system. Activities include on-site educational services, counseling, recreation, and community service projects. Community supervision services involve a DJJ JPO or a case manager from a contracted program monitoring the progress of youth at home, school, or work and compliance with other sanctions (curfew, community service, and restitution). Although length of supervision varies, most programs are designed to last three to seven months.

Post-Commitment Probation (PCP) is a statutorily defined probationary status for juveniles released from DJJ custody but over whom the juvenile court has retained jurisdiction. Similar to probation, the objectives of PCP are to monitor behavior; direct juveniles to community services appropriate to their needs; and aid juveniles in recognizing alternatives to crime. The court must approve termination of PCP. There are some post commitment residential programs listed in this report. These programs were contracted through Probation and Community Intervention to provide additional services post release from a residential commitment program.

Redirection was established by the Florida Legislature to use community-based alternatives in lieu of residential commitment for those youth that meet certain criteria. Redirection is an alternative option that can be used by JPOs as a sanction for lack of compliance with their YES Plan. The Redirection program is offered in 19 of Florida's 20 judicial circuits (none in circuit three) and allows the youth and family to participate in Functional Family Therapy (FFT) or Multi-Systemic Therapy (MST) instead of being placed in a residential facility.

MST services consist of intensive family- and community-based treatment that addresses the multiple determinants of serious antisocial behavior in juvenile offenders. The multi-systemic approach views individuals as being nested within a complex network of interconnected systems that encompass individual, family, and extra-familial (peer, school, neighborhood) factors. Intervention may be necessary in any one or a combination of these systems. MST services target chronic or substance abusing juvenile offenders and their families at high risk of out-of-home placement. The major goal of MST is to empower parents with the skills and resources needed to independently address the difficulties that arise in raising teenagers, and to empower youth to cope with family, peer, school, and neighborhood problems.

FFT is an empirically grounded and well documented family intervention program for dysfunctional youth. FFT is applied to a wide range of problem youth and their families in various multiethnic and multicultural contexts. Intervention ranges, on average, from 8 to 12 one-hour sessions for mild cases and up to 30 sessions of direct service for more difficult situations, with sessions spread over a 3 month period. FFT is conducted both in clinical settings as an outpatient therapy and as a home-based model.

Brief Strategic Family Therapy (BSFT) is an intervention service for at-risk youth and those who abuse substances or are delinquent. BSFT has two goals: 1) improve familial relationships that evolve from behavior problems presented by a youth; and 2) improve familial relationships between groups (peers, school, etc.) that impact the behavior of the youth. BSFT also addresses conflict that may be caused by differences in cultural norms and values.

Parenting with Love and Limits (PLL) combines group therapy and family therapy into one continuum of care to treat children and adolescents aged 10-18 who have severe emotional and behavioral problems (e.g., conduct disorder, oppositional defiant disorder, attention deficit/hyperactivity disorder) and frequently co-occurring problems such as depression, alcohol or drug use, chronic truancy, destruction of property, domestic violence, or suicidal ideation. PLL teaches families how to reestablish adult authority through consistent limits while reclaiming a loving relationship. It includes six multifamily sessions, conducted by two facilitators, that employ group discussions, videotapes, age-specific breakout sessions, and role-plays. Individual families also receive intensive 1- to 2-hour family therapy sessions based on a structural-strategic model in an outpatient or home-based setting to practice the skills learned in the group setting. PLL's integration of group sessions and family therapy is designed to help families apply skills and concepts to real-life situations and prevent relapse.

Profile of Youth

The following tables provide demographic data taken from DJJ's Juvenile Justice Information System (JJIS). Profile data are based on the number of youth, unduplicated, who were provided services offered by the Probation and Community Intervention services during FY 2008-09. A total of 72,029 individual youth were served through Probation and Community Intervention services during FY 2008-09.

Program Evaluation

Juvenile Probation and Community Intervention programs are evaluated using the Department's Quality Assurance (QA) process following a set of standards developed for these program types. Standards are based on the criteria set by national standards, state policy, and Florida Statute. Program profile summaries, outcomes, and accountability measures are based on the number of youth who completed each program in FY 2007-08.

Quality Assurance Performance

Programs who fail at least one QA standard as a result of their review are put on conditional status. Those programs are required to develop a correction action plan to remedy the problem. Programs are released from conditional status once the Department program office determines the program has corrected the deficiency. The following table ranks Probation and Community Intervention programs that received a QA performance rating during FY 2008-09.

Outcome Evaluation Performance

Program outputs and outcomes, including total releases, the percentage of youth adjudicated for offenses committed during supervision (ODS), number of completions, completion rates, demographic characteristics, average length of stay, and success rates, are presented in the following tables for each Probation and Community Intervention (PCI) program that released youth in FY 2007-08. Summary data are presented by individual program organized by program type. Note: completions in FY 2007-08 are evaluated in FY 2008-09 to provide success rates.

During FY 2007-08, there were a total of 39,541 releases and 29,216 completions from the PCI programs areas.

Program Area	Total Releases	Completions	%ODS	%Success
Diversion Services	5,062	4,581	90%	NA	84%
Intensive Delinquency Diversion Services	2,041	1,821	89%	9%	83%
Probation Services	21,665	15,960	74%	33%	80%
Probation Enhancement Services	1,256	686	55%	25%	66%
Day Treatment and Minimum Risk Commitment Programs	1,997	1,238	62%	37%	62%
Redirection Programs	1,371	995	73%	23%	62%
Post-Commitment Services - Provider Operated	4,349	2,810	65%	21%	62%
Post-Commitment Services - State Operated	1,800	1,169	65%	30%	70%

The rate of offenses during supervision ranged from a high of 37% of the releases from Day Treatment and Minimum Risk Commitment to a low of 9% from Intensive Delinquency Diversion Services. Completion rates varied from a high of 90% for Diversion Services to a low of 55% from Probation Enhancement Services.

The majority of youth who completed PCI programs during the year were male (74%), white (58%), and non-Hispanic (86%). The average age at admission was 16.2 years. In comparing program areas, Diversion had the highest percentage of females (38%) and Day Treatment and Minimum Risk Commitment had the highest percentage of black youth (52%) among those who completed the programs. The average age at admission increased along the continuum of services from diversion (15 years), to probation (16 years) to post commitment (17 years).

Given that PCI programs serve a wide variety of youth, ranging from youth with no prior offense history to youth who have been committed, the substantial differences in the average prior seriousness indices observed across the program areas are as expected. Youth completing IDDS and other diversion programs had the least serious delinquency histories; while youth who were previously committed completing post commitment services had the most serious delinquency histories. Youth completing intensive programs such as day treatment and redirection had more serious histories than youth completing general probation.

Success rates for PCI programs varied by program areas from a high of 84% for Diversion Services, to a low of 62% for Post-Commitment Services – Provider Operated, Redirections and Day Treatment and Minimum Risk Commitment Programs. Probation supervision had a success rate of (80%). However, these programs serve youth of varying backgrounds as evidenced by average prior seriousness index. Youth completing state operated post commitment services had greater success than those completing provider operated services (70% and 62%, respectively).

<sup>2</sup> These programs have closed, changed providers or had a structural programmatic change since the time period of other evaluation.

<sup>3</sup> Italics indicate the program completed less than 15 youth and care should be taken in interpreting this data.

<sup>4</sup> A funding change occurred on 11/15/2007. For Reporting purposes, all active youth on that date were transferred to the newly funded provider. Because of this, the completion rates for these programs are artificially low. The completion rates for these programs should not be used to assess the overall performance for this provider. The corresponding White Foundation Redirection programs for these circuits have completion rates that reflect the transferred youth. Please contact the Bureau of Research and Planning for more information.
